

The country is going crazy for chickens. Everywhere you look people are trying to keep a chicken or two in the yard for the pleasure of gathering fresh eggs. Agribusiness and factory farming are leading more and more people to the safety of slow food and local producers. Families are enjoying raising their own food and finding new meaning in simple pleasures. The makers of the Front Yard Coop are proud to announce the first chicken coop that merges green technology, sustainable agriculture, natural food, and good old-fashioned Yankee ingenuity. The Front Yard Coop makes it easy to raise chickens at home.

The inventors of the Front Yard Coop began with a small flock of five chickens years ago. They have experienced tremendous joy and satisfaction for many years raising a home flock, and it has changed their lives. They have incorporated solutions to all the problems they encountered over those years into their designs to make things easier for you. The result is a beautifully designed, worry-free home for your flock that protects them from predators and provides for them if you are away. It can change your life.

The deluxe "Full Monty" version of our Coop offers both a solar powered electric fence and a motor that slowly propels it back and forth across your yard. This unique feature turns a 4 x 8 foot pen into a limitless free ranging space for your birds. It stores power from a solar cell in a marine deep-charge battery and inches along your yard at a safe and subtle 16 feet per hour. When it bumps into something, the circuit board reverses the coop's direction. This distributes the flock's impact on your lawn and spreads its beneficial manure, and constantly offers your birds fresh forage. The fence only "Usual Suspects" model includes the solar powered electric fence that can be activated to repel invaders with a persuasive shock that keeps them from harming your chickens. It is not motorized, but can be easily moved by hand with its detachable dolly. The basic Front Yard Coop "California Suite" is a beautifully designed, portable home for a small flock of chickens. You can add an automatic food and water system with the "Babette's Feast" model, but all our coops have the same contemporary New England design that works with any style of architecture and can be painted to color of your choice as an additional upgrade.

Sized for a flock of up to six standard size birds, the FYC is made of a welded aluminum frame covered in painted bead board siding. It is weatherproof, sturdy, and easily moved. It can also be rented for two weeks along with two chickens. Everybody wins with the Front Yard Coop -- the children, the adults, the chickens. Start enjoying the fun and reaping the benefits of raising chickens at home. Gather fresh eggs when you need them.

Eliminate the need for chemical fertilizers in your yard. Your children will enjoy the responsibility of caring for their animals. They will understand where their food really comes from and that learning and home can be fun. You don't need to go out to experience good food, the wonders of nature, or a good laugh. The simple pleasures are always the best.
